

Cemetery Rules and Regulations: a guide to Bromley's cemeteries

Edition 2, October 2016

Introduction

Bromley's Cemeteries Service aims to deliver a professional and caring service. Our priority is to ensure that all funerals are carried out in a dignified manner. We also understand that a funeral is an important part of the grieving process and recognise that each person's needs are different. The Cemeteries Office staff will be more than happy to answer any questions you may have on bereavement, memorials, opening closing times, maintenance of cemeteries grounds, etc.

The Memorial Gardens and grounds at all of the seven cemeteries are open daily, including bank holidays, so that visitors may quietly contemplate, remember and feel at peace with their thoughts.

Idverde have been managing the cemeteries office since January 2008. Please call Idverde Cemeteries Service on: 01689 853617 or visit the London Borough of Bromley's website <http://bromleyparks.co.uk/our-services/cemeteries-memorials/> for further information.

Bromley has seven cemeteries;

- Biggin Hill
- Bromley Hill
- Chislehurst
- London Road
- Plaistow
- St Luke's
- St Mary Cray

This booklet explains in detail the difference between grave types, to help with your choice. We can help you with your arrangements by liaising with your Funeral Directors, giving advice on the type of grave and their availability and discussing any special religious requirements.

All of our cemeteries with the exception of Biggin Hill and St Mary Cray offer a comfortable chapel for your service, all of which have hymn books for those that wish to use them. Should you wish to listen to a special piece of music you can bring your own compact disc to play on the equipment, which is provided.

We know how important it is for people to commemorate those departed. We can offer advice on a number of memorials such as benches. If you decide to erect a memorial on the grave we will offer you guidance on what type is permitted.

At Bromley we do not provide a crematorium service, but some of our cemeteries have memorial gardens for cremated remains where loved ones can be commemorated with a granite/stone plaque.

We understand that if you have suffered a bereavement of a baby or small child, that you may have special requirements. We shall endeavour to accommodate these wherever possible.

What your Funeral Director needs to know?

Orders of Interments

Notice of Interment Forms must be accurately completed and delivered to the Cemeteries office during office working hours at least 3 days prior to the proposed interment.

Please contact Cemeteries office for further information.

Three working days notice of any intended interment must in all cases be given to the Cemeteries office. The above period of notice shall be regarded as the minimum under normal circumstances. We reserve the right to require longer notice where conditions or circumstances necessitate.

Restrictions of interments

Time of burial

Our Cemeteries Office can provide a service to enable bookings to take place between the hours of 10am to 3pm Monday to Friday at half-hourly intervals.

Interments may take place on these days in the event of special religious requirements, or in the case of infectious disease, or any similar circumstances, with sufficient notice. We reserve the right to cancel or postpone any interment due to weather conditions or other unforeseen circumstances. In these circumstances the cemetery office will immediately attempt to notify the Funeral Director or family and advise them of the situation, however every reasonable attempt will be made to carry out the burial as soon as possible, but in extreme conditions the funeral may have to be rescheduled for another day.

Sometimes grave digging may have to be abandoned where natural or other causes frustrate the full depth of burial requirements being met. In these situations the Cemeteries office will advise the Funeral Director or family and make available another plot, if available at the same cemetery.

Registrar's Certificate and Coroner's Orders

A Registrar's Certificate or Coroner's Order or a Declaration in the form prescribed by The Births and Deaths Registration Act 1926, (or any enactment in force) must be handed over to the Authorities Representative at the cemetery at the time of interment, for it to take place. For the interment of cremated remains a Certificate must be produced from the Cremation Authority and handed over to the Authority's Representative at the cemetery at the time of the interment, for it to take place.

A resident is anyone who lives in the Borough or actually dies within the Borough boundaries. For Chislehurst Cemetery the definition of a resident also includes inhabitants of the former Urban District Council of Chislehurst and Sidcup up until 1965, which now falls within the London Borough of Bexley.

When can burials take place?

Burials can take place Monday to Friday excluding Bank Holidays. If you have any special requirements then burials may take place on other days subject to sufficient notice. Please talk to your Funeral Director or contact the Cemeteries Office to discuss your special requirements.

Can I bury cremated remains in the cemeteries?

We currently have Memorial Gardens and areas set aside for cremated remains where people can bury urns, caskets, or scatter cremated ashes in Bromley Hill, Chislehurst and St Luke's. Please contact the Cemeteries Office for further information

Are all the graves on consecrated ground?

All of our cemeteries have both consecrated and un-consecrated ground. The Church of England blesses consecrated ground.

What different types of graves are available?

Full Memorial and Lawn

At full memorial sites for an annual fee we can provide a grave maintenance service that plants the grave top (spring and summer bedding) twice a year. We also offer, a keep tidy service for an annual fee where the grave top is kept weed free.

Helping you make your choice

How do I purchase a grave?

Normally your Funeral Director will help you make the necessary arrangements for purchasing a grave.

Some people may wish to make their own arrangements at the time of the funeral or pre-purchase a grave plot. You can organise this by directly contacting the Cemeteries office who will be happy to advise you.

If you want to select a particular site for a grave, we will arrange for someone to meet with you on site to help you make your choice for a small fee. (Please refer to cemetery fees).

How long are the graves purchased for?

The exclusive right of burial for grave plots is currently sold for 60 years with an option after that time to extend it for a further 40 years. These are known as 'private graves'. Single and double graves are available.

Where can graves be Purchased for future use?

Some people find comfort in easing some of the burden of bereavement for their families by making arrangements for their own funeral in advance. With this in mind, up to three graves can be purchased in advance by any one person. Our staff will be happy to help anyone make their choice of location and type of grave. Please contact the cemeteries office for information on this service.

Who can purchase a grave?

Anyone can purchase a grave space in Bromley's Cemeteries, although non-residents have to pay substantially more.

Public

A public grave (or common grave) is where your right to burial cannot be purchased and the grave remains in total control of the Council. The Council will decide who is to be buried in the grave and this might not be members of the same family. The cost of burial in a public grave is therefore much lower than that of a private grave.

Private

A private grave is where the right of burial can be leased for a period of 60 years, with an option after that time to extend it for 40 years. Please note this period of 60 years is from the point of purchase and not from the burial date. Only the owner of the right of burial can decide who will be buried in the grave, subject to appropriate burial fees and memorial permits.

How much will it cost me?

Please request current price list or visit the Bromley Parks website
<http://bromleyparks.co.uk/our-services/cemeteries-memorials/>

Can memorials be placed on graves?

Public

No memorial rights exist on public graves and so no headstone or other memorial can be placed on public graves.

Private

Memorials can only be placed on private graves. Commemorating those departed can help the bereaved person remember a loved one. For information please see the latter part of the booklet.

What do I need to do to have a memorial erected on a grave?

Headstones can only be erected on a grave at least nine months after interment, when the ground has become settled. The Cemeteries Service does not provide a masonry service, so you will need to contact a stonemason or undertaker to commission the work. There are restrictions on the size and material of Headstones, and you should ensure that the Cemeteries Service approves these and any proposed inscription before work commences. The Cemeteries office can provide details of BRAMM accredited stonemasons.

What memorials are available for cremated remains?

Some of our cemeteries have formal Memorial gardens available for the burial or scattering of cremated remains. These burial plots are granted for a 60 year period with an option of a further 40 years extension on expiry. Each plot can hold up to two burials. For those people that desire a memorial, a stone tablet can be placed on the plot.

What Other Forms Of Memorial Are Available?

Memorial Benches

Hardwood memorial benches with an engraved plaque are available for purchase as a dedication in various cemeteries. As there is only a limited amount of space available for memorial benches

Wall of Remembrance

We offer memorial plaques to be placed on the Wall of Remembrance in St. Luke's Cemetery only

Digging and Opening of Graves

Written authority is required from the registered owner of a private grave for it to be opened, for interment purposes, or failing this, such other authority as the Council may require.

All graves shall be excavated by contractors appointed by the Council, at the expense of the registered owner of the Exclusive Right of Burial. The removal of a memorial at the time of interment, and the subsequent replacement, shall be the sole responsibility of the Funeral Director, or other persons appointed. Should an exhumation be required, it may take place at a time specified by the Council, at the agreed contract cost plus the appropriate officer attendance and administration fee, but only after legal and/or other authority has been obtained in writing.

Information concerning memorials and what your stone mason needs to know

Three working days notice must be given to the cemeteries office prior to any memorial work being carried out and this includes fixing a new memorial.

Public Graves (where the Right of Burial has not been purchased)

Public Grave

Memorials, gravestones or tablets will not be permitted upon graves in which the exclusive right of burial has not been purchased. A public grave (or common grave) is where your right to burial cannot be purchased and the grave remains in total control of the Council. The Council will decide who is to be buried in the grave and this might not be members' of the same family. No memorial rights exist on public graves and so no headstone or other memorial can be erected. The cost of burial in this type of grave is therefore much lower than that of a private grave.

And the Council reserve the right to remove any artefacts that may cause offence or redeem to be a possible danger to the public.

Private Grave

A private grave is where the right of burial can be purchased for a period of 60 years, with an option after that time to extend it for 40 years. The owner of the right of burial can decide who will be buried in the grave, subject to appropriate burial fees and memorial permits. Before any memorial may be erected, or any inscription added (or renovations, or additions, or alterations, or any other work carried out to an existing memorial) an application must be submitted for approval. This shall be on the appropriate form supplied by the Council, and must be accompanied by the written authority of the owner. In the case of the erection of a new memorial, an application must be accompanied by a drawing of the proposed memorial, giving detailed dimensions and specifying the class of stone, marble or granite to be used, and the exact inscription proposed. The Council may refuse permission for any memorial or inscription, which could be considered distasteful/offensive.

Work on memorials may only be carried out at the Cemetery, when a permit has been issued.

The section and grave number must be inscribed at the back of the headstone in the top right hand corner. On a full memorial, the section and grave number should be inscribed at the front right hand corner of the kerb.

In Bromley Cemeteries there are three types of memorial; a full memorial grave, a lawn section grave and the Memorial Garden for the interment of ashes. On the day of the funeral, flowers and wreaths will be placed upon the grave in which the burial takes place and may remain there for 10-15 days only, after which time they may be removed by the cemetery staff.

A minimum of 9 months should be allowed for settlement after the interment has taken place and during the appropriate season, and subject to weather or suitable ground conditions, the Council will lay turf over the entire area of the grave. No person other than the appointed Cemeteries contractor shall interfere with or alter the grass area of the grave.

The maintenance of the grass area will be carried out so far as is practicable by the Council at no additional cost to the owner of the grave.

In all incidents purchasers are strongly recommended to read the following regulations regarding the lawn section.

The Council has a duty of care for the stability and safety of cemetery memorials. The authority has a policy of undertaking mechanical testing of all memorials on a regular basis. Any memorial found to be unsafe would be either laid flat or cordoned off for safety. The Council will endeavour to contact the grave owner from records held in the Cemetery Office, and where the owners have notified the authority of the change of address.

Many people choose to erect a memorial stone, with the name and details of the departed, along with private words or a poem. To undertake the work you will need to contact a stonemason or undertaker. The Cemeteries Office can supply a list of suitable Memorial Masons.

Before your mason begins work the Cemeteries Office must approve the design and wording and we will always attempt to meet your requirements. Rules are necessary to ensure that it will not become a hazard in future years, through unsuitable design, and that the sentiments, whilst personal, convey your message in a suitable dignified way. To avoid disappointment, it is important that you discuss your requirements with us at the earliest opportunity.
